“Peak Performance is not about victory over others – it’s about tapping into your personal power and reaching the greatest heights possible for you. In an organisational sense it’s about visionary leadership: creating an ideal (the “best possible organisation”) and deciding to make it real. It’s about moving your personal and organisational results to the next level – building the vision and implementing strategies to realise the vision. It’s about making a mark and leaving a legacy.”

– Steve Wells
